BURKS Bolivar, Mo. feet and legs; he forgot everything--the big fight was on. I ve got him! I ve got him! he shouted until it echoed up and down the stream and brought Herb running. Come watch a real fisherman bring in your human fish. For fifteen minutes it was an even break. Eric took in line then lost it. His captive continuously churned the water at the surface but did not leap. After thirty minutes Eric had backed to the bank and retrieved most of his line. It was quite dark now in the bed of the stream so he could get no idea of the size of his catch but decided not to try using the dip net in midstream. I ve won! he cried as his rod tip came even with the bank and The Elusive Coon (Continued from page loo) against the moon. He looked about as big as a small dog and he was rolled up like a long bun. Then the real work started. We had, for armament, one single barrel shotgun with six shells. Andrew insisted on being chief gunner and emptied five shells into the fresh autumn ozone. The coon sat serenely silent on his perch in the old oak tree. Perhaps he sneered at us. Andrew must have thought so, because he addressed the little chap in very uncomplimentary terms. He exhausted all the words he knew, and his profane...
